

Graduate Study Abroad

Tuesday, October 25, 3:00 pm – 4:00 pm EDT

Presented by:
Mike Walock
Doctoral Student
Arts et Métiers ParisTech

Moderated by:
Amy Flatten
Director of International
Affairs
American Physical Society

Mike Walock, doctoral student at the University of Alabama and ParisTech, will share his experiences as an American graduate student abroad.

Amy Flatten, Director of International Affairs at APS, will lead the discussion.

Working with the RF magnetron sputtering system with my colleague (Yujiao Zou on the left)

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

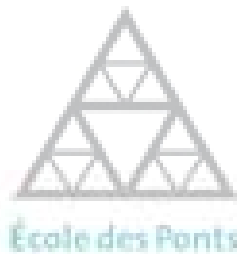

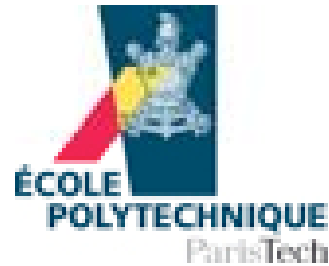

Out for dinner with colleagues, from left to right: Corinne Nouveau (French advisor), Amel Zairi, Mike Walock, Aurelian Besnard

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

ParisTech

- Created in 2007 (oldest school: 1741)
 - 11 engineering schools,
 - 1 business school

Picture of the remains of the Cluny Abbey on the grounds of ENSAM

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Overlooking the town of Cluny

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Collaboration meeting, from left to right: Corinne Nouveau (French advisor), Andrei Stanishevsky (US advisor), and Mike Walock

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Rue de Commerce during Cluny's Christmas festival (2010)

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Palais du Pape Gélase; rear entrance to ENSAM

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Looking onto Le Cloitre, the main administrative offices and dormitory of ENSAM

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

The lab/classroom building of ENSAM

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Le Cloitre and the remaining tower of the Cluny Abbey

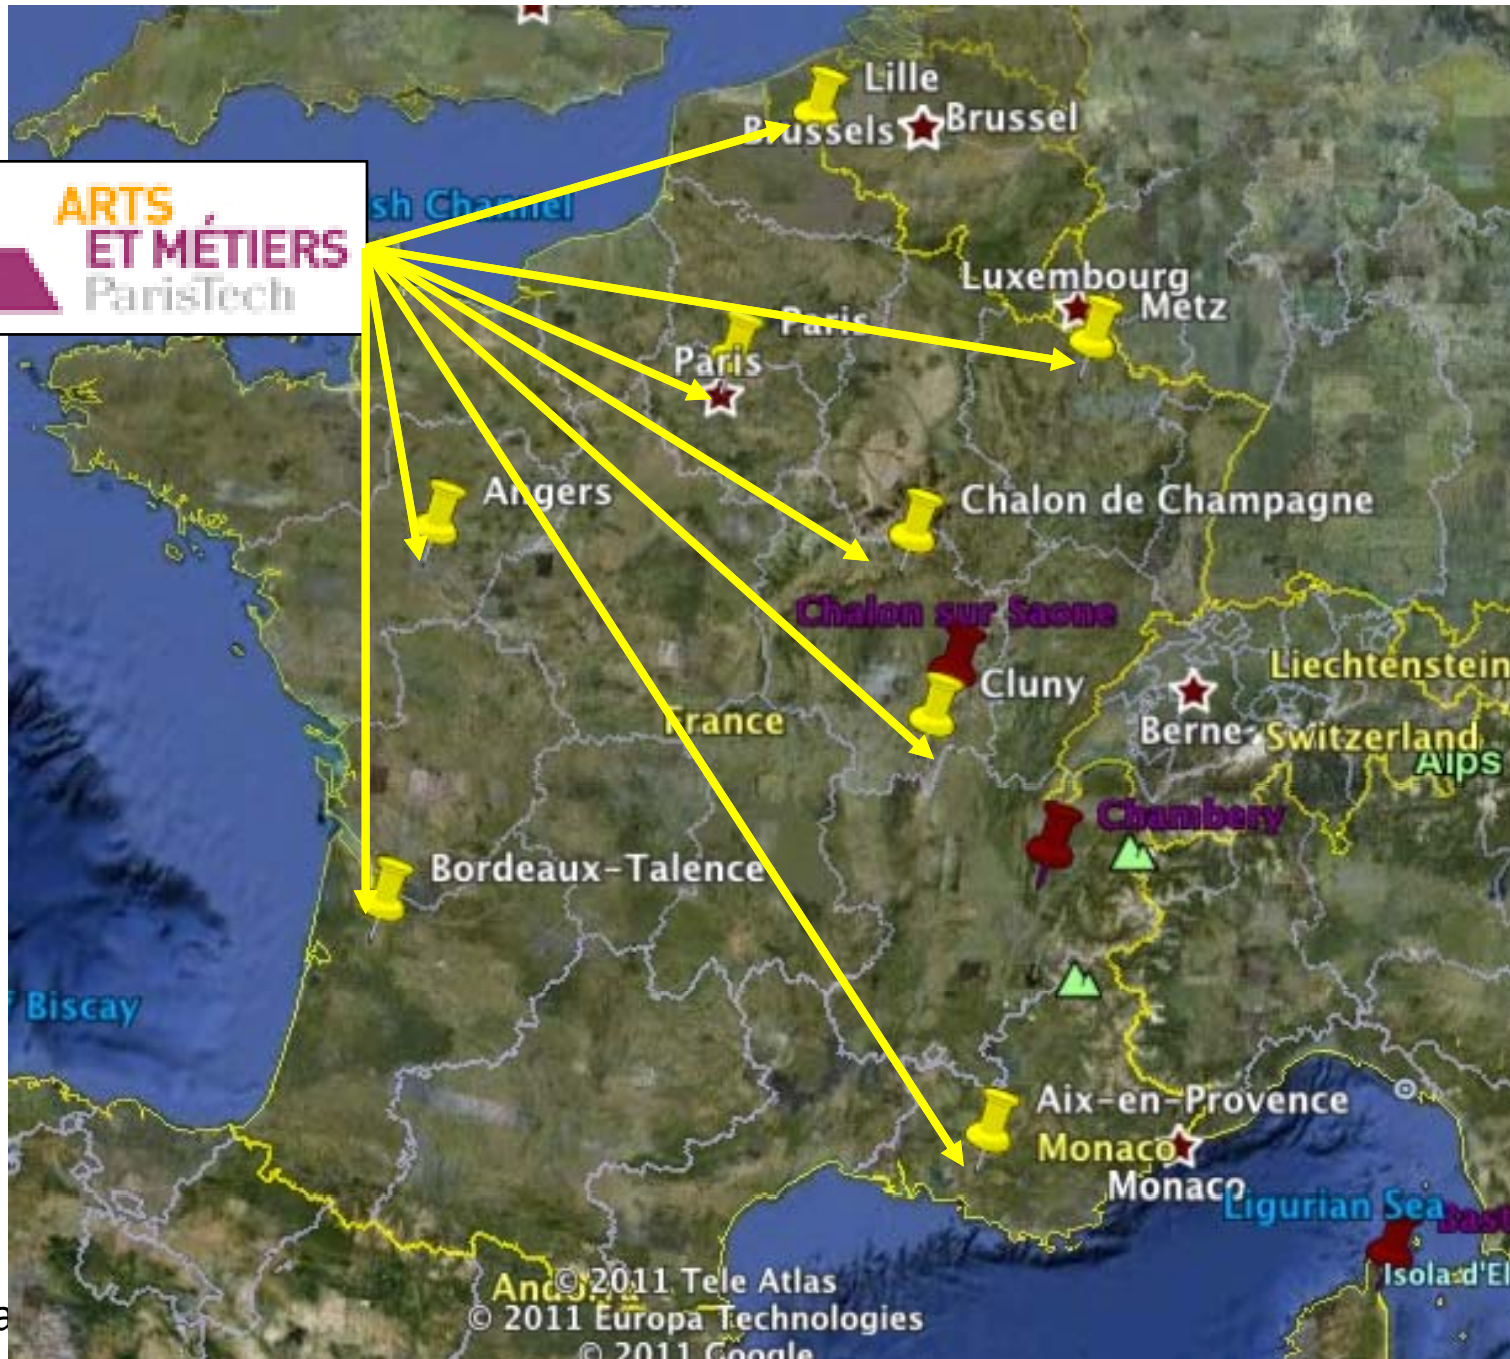

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Looking on the ruins of the Cluny abbey, from what would have been the main entrance to the church.

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Gradua

© 2011 Tele Atlas
© 2011 Europa Technologies
© 2011 Google

AR
tions

Palais du Pape Gélease at night during the festival celebrating the Abbey's 1100th anniversary.

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Cathédrale de St Jean Baptiste in Lyon

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Graduate Study Abroad

Tuesday, October 25, 3:00 pm – 4:00 pm EDT

Presented by:
Mike Walock
Doctoral Student
Arts et Métiers ParisTech

Moderated by:
Amy Flatten
Director of International
Affairs
American Physical Society

Mike Walock, doctoral student at the University of Alabama and ParisTec, will share his experiences as an American graduate student abroad.

Amy Flatten, Director of International Affairs at APS, will lead the discussion.

École Catholique d'Arts et Métiers in Lyon

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Collaboration visit with ECAM

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

View of Plac Bellecour from Fourvière Hill (Lyon)

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Notre Dame de Fourvière (Lyon)

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Ruins of Roman amphitheater in Lyon

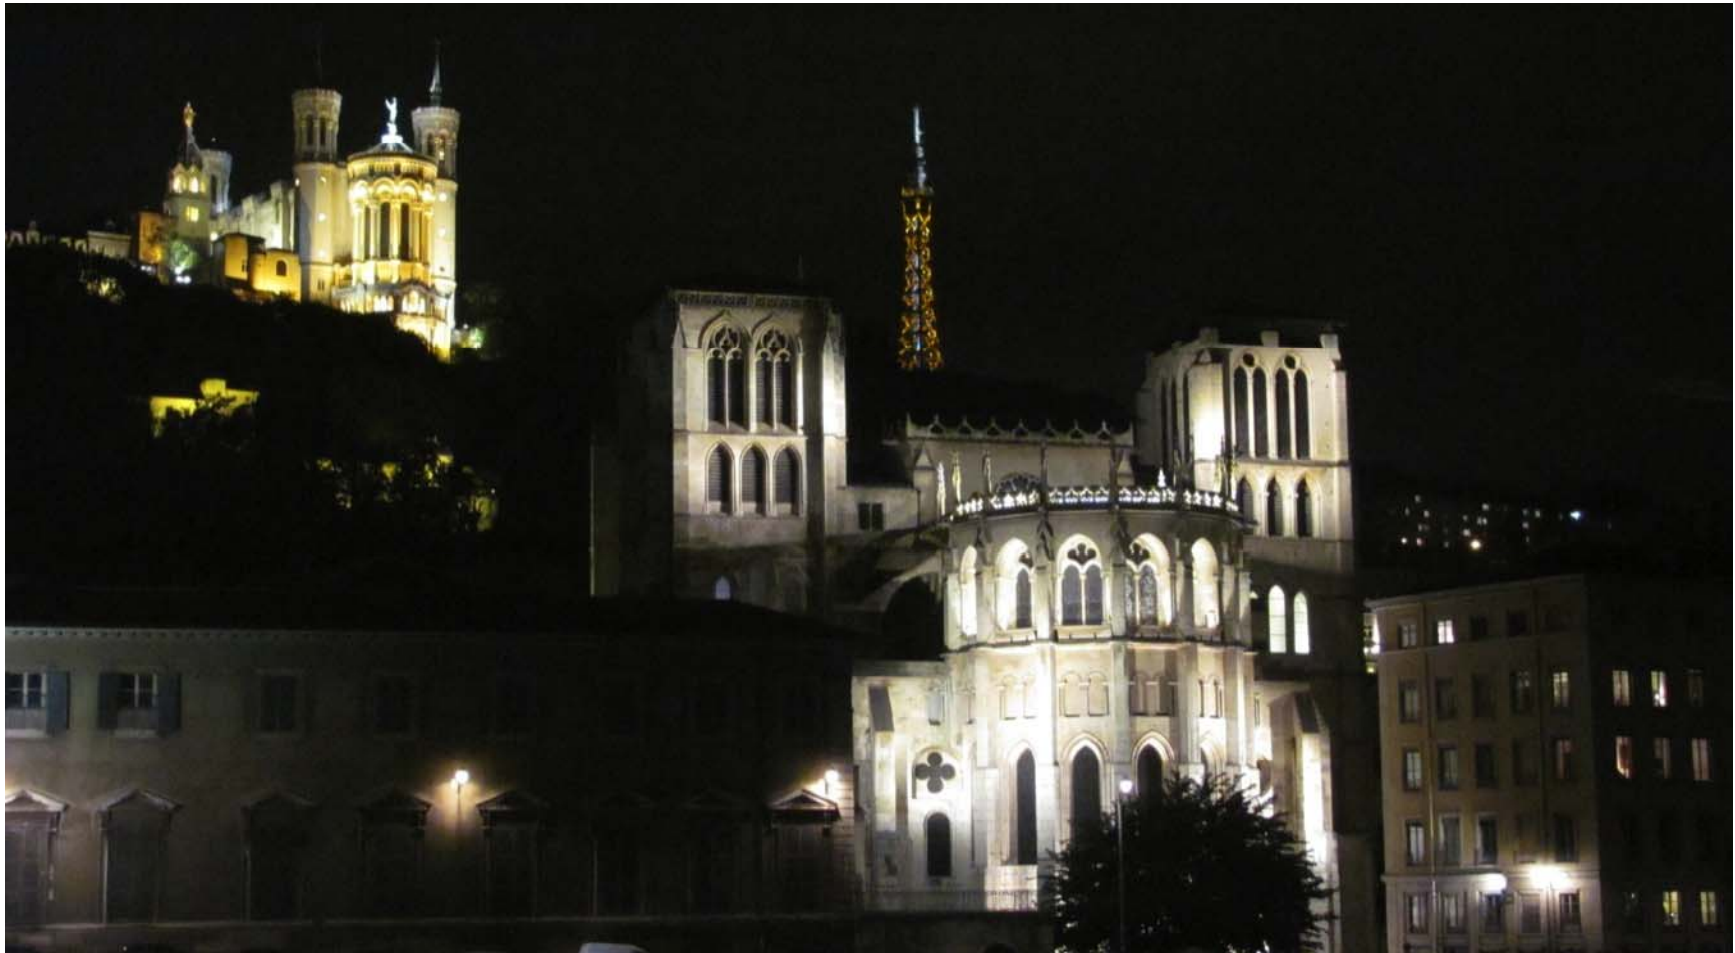

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Ruins of an enclosed Roman amphitheater in Lyon

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Notre Dame de Fourvière, Tour Métallique de Fourvière, and Cathédrale St Jean Baptiste at night

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Mike Walock outside Cathédrale Notre Dame de Paris

Graduate Study Abroad—October 25, 2011

Online Resources

- France
 - Campus France (<http://www.campusfrance.org>)
 - ParisTech (<http://www.paristech.fr>)
- UK
 - British Council (<http://www.educationuk.org>)
- Germany
 - GAES (<http://www.daad.de>)